

Senior Airman Aisha Smith, a public health journeyman from Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., helps kick off the show Nov. 22.

Left, Staff Sgt. Christine Farris, a ground radar systems technician from Tinker AFB, Okla., sings for the crowd at Patriot Hall in Sumter.

Tops in Blue performs more than 100 performances a year all over the world.

Tops in Blue first started when the Air Force created the Air Force Worldwide Talent Contest in 1953 to recognize talented Airmen in various categories ranging from comedy, drama, vocals, gospel, vocal and instrumental groups, country and western and several others.

Tops in Blue recently selected 1st Lt. Rachel Rogers, 20th Services Squadron, to be in their 2006 tour. See Page 5 for more information about Lt. Rogers.

Photos by Tech. Sgt. Shirley Henderson